World Police And Fire Games

The Speedway Police Department is looking for local area residents, who want to volunteer their time for the upcoming 2001 World Police and Fire Games which will be held June 8-16.

The games will involve 70 sports at more than 43 venues across 4,400 square miles of Indiana. One of the many venues is the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Activities at the IMS include golf, narcotic dog exercises, police motorcycle skills, wrist wrestling, tug of war, bicycling and bicycling sprints.

Officials of the games need more than 5,000 volunteers to handle operations in sports, registration, hospitality, transportation and many other areas. So far more than 2,000 people have signed up to volunteer.

Volunteers must be 16 years of age by June 8, 2001, and be willing to work three, six-hour shifts during the event. In return volunteers will receive an official game uniform, complimentary food and beverages and credentials to attend the competitions.

Anyone wishing to volunteer for these events or any other events can still pick up a volunteer from at the Speedway Police Department, any central Indiana Marsh Food Store, all Marion County police and fire stations or by calling (317) 327-2001 or visiting the games website at www.2001wpfg.org.

Old Speedway A Historic Place

Exciting national recognition is in the works for the Town of Speedway, Wayne Township, and the City of Indianapolis. The Old Speedway City Neighborhood Association is getting ready to sign a contract with historian Weintraut & Associates to prepare the documents necessary for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places.

In Wayne township, the only entity to hold that distinction is the Indianapolis Motor Speedway itself. The original Speedway City would be the only westside neighborhood, or area, to hold such an honor. The distinction lends prestige to an area, and is a wonderful way to make known and help preserve an area's heritage. While the title is quite prestigious, there will be no encumbrances on the properties or mandates for the property owners like local historic designations impose.

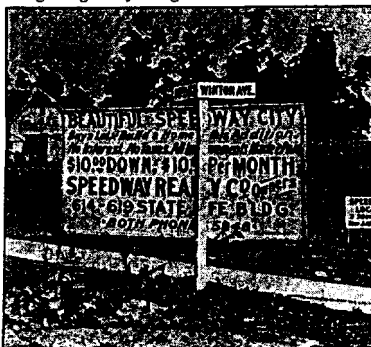

To qualify for the National Register of Historic Places, an area must be at least 50 years old, largely intact, and historically significant. The original Speedway City meets all 3 requirements. As part of the application process, each structure in the neighborhood will be listed as contributing or non-contributing, with attention given to architectural detail and style for the time period. When awarded, besides noteworthy distinction, the present neighbors, businesses, and administrators will gain capacity to obtain grant money, such as a grant program entitled, "Main Street USA" to further help the area be in thriving pristine condition. As urban sprawl seems to ever continue, this gives an incredible advantage to established older towns that qualify, so they may better themselves in the spirit of why they were formed. This greatly increases the attractiveness of such areas, for both residents and businesses.

What a jewel for Indianapolis' westside! Of course, as is always the case, it takes money to make things happen. The old Speedway City Neighborhood Association's historic committee is beginning its efforts to raise $4,350 to offset the cost for the document preparation. The committee also envision bronze national register plaques on houses within the area for property and business owners that would like to have them.

Early Speedway real estate sign ... What a deal! $10 down, $10 per month.

If you would like to contribute to this worthwhile cause, any amount that you could spare is needed and would be tremendously appreciated.

The Gateway To Speedway

by Tim Davidson

It wasn't long after the Indianapolis Motor Speedway was built in 1909 that Speedway City (later to become the Town of Speedway), one of the nation's first planned communities, began to take shape.

Since Main Street was installed in those early days, its general appearance has changed many times and scores and scores of businesses have come and gone. But the one that stayed the longest was Rosner's Drug Store. In 1914 or '15 the two story brick structure became Main Street's first business building (Plot 1, Number 1) constructed on the unusually wide thoroughfare which was to become the town's bustling center of business.

The Rosner building originally housed two businesses - a pharmacy and a grocery store - but somewhere along the line the grocery was removed and the pharmacy expanded to occupy the entire first floor.

The pharmacy remained until 1987, when Dick Rosner - the fifth to run the family business - closed it for good. He has been employed at the Crawfordsville Road Marsh pharmacy ever since.

At one time, Rosner's was a popular hangout for kids; until much later in its tenure as Main

Street's longest-running business, the store had a soda fountain and served food. During May it was a favorite place to eat lunch among many of the big-name Indy 500 drivers, in the days when they weren't all from rich backgrounds and many of them stayed in the homes of the Speedway residents during racetime.

Checks can be made out to OSCNA, and sent to P.O. Box 241156, Speedway, IN 46224. For additional information call Carolyn Runge, Historic Committee Chairman, at 241-0703. The neighborhood association meets the 2nd Monday of each month at the Methodist Church on 16th Street.

For those interested, much of the history of this town, built for the auto industry, has been compiled in a book titled, "The Town of Speedway", available in the reference section of the Speedway Public Library.

After Rosner moved out, the building housed a photo shop for awhile; for the past ten years it has been the home of The Speedway Town Press, the town's weekly newspaper.

Saturday Treasures

by Sara Sanderson

"Walking Our Town"

bag, her shades, and a fabulous hat. Her computer had been giving her trouble this particular morning, she remembered, so why in the world not head outdoors. We laughed, and went our own way.

Closer to the library, you will notice a garden behind Fire Station #2. Darren could be coaxed to pose by the produce, but assured me the credit for the garden belongs to Chris. I promised we will leave the vegetables for the firefighters, but perhaps a walker or two might borrow their shaded picnic table for a short rest. That would be fine.

Heading between the fire station and the library, I wanted to check on the Smoke Tree around front. In late spring, on a gray misty day, this very tree had smacked my tall grandson in the face with its soggy feather puffs. At the time, we all laughed. Today I notice it shelters a "Yield" sign; now shouldn't it have yielded to Tyler?

Enter the library, on your search for treasures. Darsi, the director of the facility, shows me the fine gallery of art prints available for six weeks loan. Got your Monet? Then head down the hall, around the corner, and browse among the books for sale. Fifty cents will purchase a paperback mystery for your personal library of classics. She also showed me the lobby display case where any resident can display a collection. Today, it's Star Wars; she remembers ones on Easter eggs, playing cards, and pigs. What do you have?

Above all the other treasures, the one prized most by this walker is a canvas bag. Available for only five dollars, what a great gift idea for a sister in Albany. But most of all, as Marie and others know, a walker needs a canvas bag. I leave, with four books in mine.

Sanderson welcomes suggestions for future columns. If you have something Speedway that interests you, let us know. Contact Sanderson at the Press office by note, or phone 241-4345.

Around the bushes, or through the bushes, it doesn't matter. You begin a walk to the Speedway Library, from the shopping center, between Krogers and the next chain of stores. Here's the deal: go a short distance north along the fence; as soon as you find the entry just beyond the batting cages get inside, on the high school side of the fence. Trust me. You can't get through further up, and you might even get yelled at; that has happened.

On a delightful Saturday morning, a walk to the library is a chance to meet neighbors, ponder nature, and treasure the day. What could be more fun than to notice another walker approach, greet each other with smiles, move on. This time I just had to ask if I could take a photo for this column; Marie graciously agreed. She says the walk from her apartment takes seven minutes, and wonders why anyone would drive when we can walk. Instantly recognizable as a veteran walker, Marie has her canvas shoulder

Once Again, A Great Festival

The St. Christopher Tops in Food Festival once again drew crowds for the carnival rides, games, bingo, fried fish and pork chop dinners.

The recent lightning strike that caused over $100,000 in damage to the Church did not dampen the spirits and enthusiasm of the parish members putting on the event.
